

I strongly support Indiana's existing Telephone Privacy law, and I urge you to deny the request by the Consumer Bankers Association to weaken the protection afforded by the current law.

Since signing up for Indiana's no call list my entire family has benefitted by not having to deal with telemarketers calling at all hours. I believe that allowing banks to begin calling to solicit additional products and services would significantly invade my privacy and reduce the benefits of the statute.

The banks have ample other opportunities to market their products and services to existing customers through enclosures in monthly statements and when conducting transactions in bank branches.

Thank you.
